

The Reality of Extraterrestrials

What Are They Really Like?

During the latest space exploration NASA discovered aliens on a distant planet. They were shocked to discover that contrary to the belief of movies such as Independence Day, the aliens are actually far less technologically advanced than us humans. In fact, through data that was collected it seems as if they are currently as technologically advanced as we were during the Renaissance. "We imagine that if we were to visit this planet it would be kind of like traveling to the past," John Doe, a NASA scientist, said in a recent interview "though we would have to do further research to determine the differences in the societal norms".

What Do They Look Like?

The aliens found looked surprisingly similar to humans. They have very similar body proportions, which causes them to be able to function in a similar way to us.
